POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR CONGRESS
T. A. Chandler of Tulsa hereby announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress from the First Congressional District, subject to the will of the Republican voters of the district at the August primary.

ARE GENUINE AMERICANS.

We have heard a great deal lately about the German-American vote all going to Hughes, because these people were offended at Wilson's attitude towards Germany. It has not been the foreign-born citizens themselves who have been giving out this impression, but it has come from Democratic sources, the inference being that such opposition was a recommendation to Mr. Wilson and an embarrassment to Mr. Hughes. There has not been so much an attempt to question the loyalty of these people as to injure the Republican candidate and create sympathy for the Democratic. Henry Weismann, president of the German-American alliance of New York, hastens to deny that his brethren will be found as a clique throwing their united influence in either direction, but will be divided by individual preferences just like other Americans. "Leaders of the alliance," he says, "will do exactly the same thing as other patriotic Americans—work for and vote for the man whose patriotism is of the highest and who regards our country's welfare as his chief aim." Because of the fact that there have been some hyphenated Americans who have been unreasonably jealous of the interests of their native land and have been unable to keep their neutrality on straight is no reason for condemning any lot of foreign-born citizens on cause as being biased and unpatriotic or of having sought to unduly influence the conduct of either party. They are, with only rare exceptions, just as loyal to the United States as any native. The attempt to give out the impression that the contrary is only a campaign device, for if the Democrats can get people to believe that the hyphenates are opposed to Wilson because they regard him as more truly American than Hughes they expect thereby to gain a few more votes for the Democratic ticket. They want us to believe that the Democratic party has a monopoly of patriotism and loyalty and they are not above distorting the truth to spread this impression.

TIME TO GET BUSY.

Leaders of the dominant party are beginning to realize that circumstances compel them to do something more than make a bluff at preparation. If we should have war with the Mexico it will be enough to show how pitifully inadequate is the best provision the Democrats have been willing so far to make. A Democratic congress has steadfastly refused to let us have a real army, although public sentiment forced them to increase the former force to some extent. It would not have been wise for the party to go before the electorate without having made at least a pretense of doing what the president has been preaching so vigorously. The naval program came near meeting the same fate at the hands of the house, but now that it is in the hands of the senate, the party leaders have woken up to the realization that half-way measures are not going to do unless we wish to make ourselves the laughing-stock of the world. If our expected tilt with Mexico should be serious enough to expose the inefficiency and inadequacy of our military and naval facilities we could but expect the contempt and ridicule. If not aggression, of the other powers. Whether the Mexican blow-up was a part of the administration's calculations or not, it is going to prod up the party in congress to take up a more serious view or preparatory measures. There must be something more substantial than political capital, or else they are aware of public repudiation. So Secretary Daniels and the president are going to strain every nerve to have the senate correct the stupid blunders of the house in trimming down the naval program, and the chances are the senate will exert itself to that end. It is understood that the two dreadnaughts which the house rejected will be restored by the senate, and the personnel increase of eleven thousand men will be raised to twenty thousand. It is time they were getting busy.

TULSA TO THE FRONT.

Although our local militia company has been long extinct, the call for mobilization of the national guard found a ready response in Tulsa. There are enough men here who know the smell of powder to make the nucleus of an effective company and they, with others, have been prompt to come to the front and offer their services for the flag and for the glory of Tulsa. Our city has not been backward with anything else, and it is fitting and commendable that it should be creditably represented at the front when the time comes to fight. But Tulsa has no monopoly on this sentiment. The response all over the nation is something to make the citizen's heart swell with pride. These men are not all soldiers, but they are the staff soldiers are made out of and they are not going to see the stars and stripes trampled in the dust if they can get a chance to prevent it or to avenge the blood of their countrymen that has already been shed. The president is undoubtedly deeply sensible of this demonstration of the serious side of loyalty and we hope his future course will be such as to justify the response he has received. These men are bent on going down to the border to do something, not to loaf around idly, but to chase an occasional elusive bandit. They want to try conclusions and restore the impaired honor and dignity of the flag. To send these thousands of militiamen to the zone of hostilities and then hold them in leash will not only be a waste of energy but it will be a lasting injury to our national sense of patriotism. If they are played with this time, they will not be so ready to go next time. These men deserve, as the country at large deserves, the confidence of the administration. They should not be trifled with. They are going for business, not for fun.

UNNECESSARY VERBIAGE.

The administration's note to Carranza rejecting his demand for American evacuation of Mexico is plain and explicit. He will hardly attempt to prolong the discussion, for the American position leaves him only two alternatives—to consent to American occupation with a friendly purpose, or to resist that occupation and take the consequences. The president is to be commended for the stand he has taken, and our only regret is that he did not get to this point long ago. A cliché is true: words have saved him, but we have come to the place where it will take more stiches or more to close up the breach. Carranza has presumed on our long-suffering forbearance and disinclination to be harsh until he has added insult to repeated injury. It is time to call him to account. The Mexican people themselves will be the better off when they can no longer be exploited by the bewhiskered demagogue. Mr. Wilson has produced a comprehensive indictment against the facts, which admits of no defense. The note is unnecessarily long and explicit, for the same thing could have been said just as clearly and forcibly in half the number of words. Its length and circumstantiality can be of no additional value just at present, but as a state paper it may be a useful reference for future historians as showing how much the United States suffered from this arrogant leader before patience was exhausted and resort was had to force. Mr. Wilson's sailing out of the military and naval strength of the nation meets with the hearty approbation of the people and there will be no lack of recruits as long as it appears that he means business.

ABE MARTIN

I can't see why the but-ter want to mix cement with anything as cheap as pancake flour. Corn makes whiskey, whiskey makes Democrats, and Democrats make paramount issues.

BLE TALK BY THE TOWN CRITIC

I stood and watched while big Strong men signed the list. Which signified that they had given their services to flag. And state. And as I watched them come and go, a puny thing in form of man, I will not call him man, for it would be an insult to the name, for men, if they are really men, are loyal to their flag and home. It matters not what be the cause. And so this flesh in form of man did stand and as they passed did speak to them in most deprecating terms of flag and country which gave him bread: until at last there came a man to whom he spoke in words of encouragement. Passed his tips when blow from Man did strike him down and like a deadly serpent he writhed upon the ground. And then he rose and like a dog did dig and dig and dig. Some honor, some patriotism, some everything.

City News in Brief

C. T. AUBOTT and Bruce Russell, of Tulsa left Wednesday night for Muskogee where they will visit at the Sequoyah club.
MISS VIOLA HALL, 419 Robinson arcade building, underwent an operation at the P. & S. hospital Wednesday night and is doing nicely.
FRANK STEWART RUSSELL, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray D. Russell, 1812 South Cheyenne avenue, has returned from Ames agricultural school at Ames, Iowa, where he passed his freshman year.

MEMBERS of the Den Bar Lodge will hold a picnic this evening at Owen park as a farewell compliment to Mrs. Charles Kistinger, a member who leaves soon to spend the summer in the east.

WITHIN A SHORT TIME Tulsa may be treated to the sight of soldiers en route to the border for it is probable that some of the northern companies of national guard will be handled by either the Frisco or Santa Fe.

MISS GERTRUDE WEST, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. West, 1812 South Cheyenne avenue, returned yesterday from Lebanon, Ill., where she graduated this spring from the music department of McKendree college.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Robert Pierce Davis, 18-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Davis, were conducted from the home of the parents, 215-A West Fifth street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Frank Neff, burial being made in Oaklawn cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE TRISSELER, a pioneer Broken Arrow woman, who had lived in that city for 14 years, died at her home Sunday afternoon and was buried at Broken Arrow Wednesday afternoon. She leaves a husband and seven children and a large number of friends both in Broken Arrow and Tulsa.

T. M. STEELE, general manager of the Kewanee Oil company, suffered painful injuries when he was struck by a Police-Clothing company delivery truck about noon yesterday at the corner of Fourth and Main streets and was rushed to the P. & S. hospital where medical attention prevented possible complications. Mr. Steele is 11 years old. According to witnesses, he was driving a car at a rate of speed not safe in the downtown district when the old man walked across the street from the sidewalk, not seeing the approaching car. Blame was placed on the driver. Mr. Steele was formerly a resident of Robinson, Kan., but now lives at Hotel Tulsa.

HOLD REPUBLICAN CONVENTION TODAY

our campaign. Republican headquarters were opened in the Robinson Arcade several weeks ago and an excellent working organization has already been put under the able leadership of Chairman A. A. Small of the county central committee.
Several able speakers will address the convention today.
Chairman Small is not worried over the failure of more candidates to file for county offices. He indicated that there would be several candidates to follow their late into the ring shortly after the convention opens and that a number of candidates will file before the end of next week.
The convention will be called to order at promptly 3 o'clock this afternoon and is open to all. A large banner will be presented to the president committee having the largest number of voters present from his precinct.

AGAIN TULSA SOARS.

Tulsa's clearing house statements continue to rank up new records for the state and this section of the country. For the week ending yesterday afternoon, at the close of business, the clearing house, the statement showed that a total of $2,768,724 had passed through the institution, a gain of 169 percent over the corresponding period of last year, when $1,600,891 was cleared.
Point figures kept by the local clearing house, it is shown that the average increase of each week's clearings of this year over the corresponding week of 1915 was 124 per cent. No other city in the country can boast of such a record.

U. S. ISSUES FIRST ORDERS TO MARCH

Militia of Three States Will Be Sent to Border at Once.

WILSON GIVES WORD

California, Kansas and Missouri Get First Call to Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The first orders for sending to the border national guardsmen called into the federal service last Sunday by President Wilson went out from the war department Thursday. At same time Secretary Baker sent inquiries to the state governors that are expected to hurry mobilization.
Orders for the movement to the border affect the first five thousand guardsmen to be mustered into the service in the central department and the first five thousand in the western department. General Barry at Chicago and General Bell at San Francisco, respective commanders of these departments, were directed to send the quotas indicated as soon as their muster is complete, selecting the first units to qualify regardless of the branches of service to which they belong. General Funston will select their destinations.
In his telegram to the governors, Secretary Baker asked how soon the quotas asked for in the president's call would be ready. He expects a reply immediately giving the present status of mobilization in each state about which the department now is informed only in a general way. He requested also that each governor report again as soon as his state's units are mobilized.

Western Department.
The states in the western department are California, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington. The central department is composed of Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

The national guard of three states—California, Kansas and Missouri—virtually were under marching orders tonight. The force totals at least ten thousand men, including three brigades of infantry, seven troops of cavalry, seven batteries of field artillery, three companies of signal corps, troops and ambulance companies and field hospitals. Commanders of the central and western departments were directed to send the guardsmen as soon as they have been mustered in to points on the border to be designated by General Funston.

Militia division officials had no reports to indicate how soon the troops of these states would start south. They were selected, however, because they are the most efficient organizations of considerable strength which can reach quickly the points where General Funston has indicated they are most urgently needed.

No general estimate of the progress of the guards mobilization is available at the war department. Most of the reports received merely say the men are being assembled.
With the sending of the navy ships to virtually every Mexican port ready to take off American refugees, another weapon will have been placed in President Wilson's hands for use in case war does come. The ships will be so disposed that a blockade of Mexico by sea could be set up at a moment's notice should the need arise.

TULSA SHIPPERS BOYCOTT SANTA FE

Take Freight Matters in Their Own Hands When Road Won't Come to Rescue.

After having complained repeatedly to the general manager and other officials of the Santa Fe system concerning the congested condition of the freighthouse in Tulsa, the Tulsa Traffic association has issued a general request to its members that all freight be routed on other roads until some action is taken in the matter.
The same question was taken up with the Frisco at the same time, and the Frisco responded by including a part of the old outbound platform which lies between Elgin and Frankfort streets. They turned this over to the Santa Fe for all of its freight, both inbound and outbound, the Frisco using the regular route.
This has proved entirely unsatisfactory, especially on account of the narrow driveway, which must be used by trucks. Large shippers have reported that such blocks the entire driveway, so that drivers have to wait their turn to get into the driveway, and only one of them can unload at a time.

The condition of affairs is known to high officials and has been reported as satisfactory by them. Un-til some adjustment is made, a general boycott of the Santa Fe has been ordered, and probably will be carried into effect immediately.

SHOOTING MYSTERY PUZZLING POLICE

O. V. Morris in Hospital With Bullet Wound, Negro Bootlegger Under Arrest.

With O. V. Morris, 527 East Third street, in the P. & S. hospital, shot through the right arm, and with Dave Thompson, a negro, in jail, following his capture last night while driving a booze wagon laden with seven hundred and twenty bottles of beer, federal officers are investigating a story told by the negro that Morris was the courier, revolver in her hand, then "took charge" of the train. The story of the tragedy, at time adjournment was taken for the day, had been brought to the point where the railroad was alleged to have escaped from the train.

If the story told by the black bears corroboration, it is probable that Morris will be arrested as soon as he is released from the hospital. Morris so far has refused to give any information which might help clear up the affair.
According to the story of the negro, the unidentified assailant fired the shot which entered Morris' arm and then ordered them to halt. The booze, becoming frightened, broke into a run and, followed by a volley from the ambuscade, got away from danger.

TELL HOW HADLEYS KILLED JAKE GILES

Special to The World.
MUSKOGEE, Okla., June 23.—The dramatic story of the murder of Sheriff Jake Giles of Beaumont, Texas, in the chair of a Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train after it had left Muskogee early on the morning of March 24, was told by the state witnesses in the district court today, where Paul and Ida Hadley, who were Giles' prisoners, are on trial charged with his murder.

Passengers in the car swore that they had seen the Hadleys walk up the aisle behind the sheriff, who lay asleep, draw a revolver from her bosom and shoot the officer in the back of the head. Giles never moved after the shot was fired, witnesses said.

Other witnesses, among them members of the train crew, declared that the couple, revolver in her hand, then "took charge" of the train. The story of the tragedy, at time adjournment was taken for the day, had been brought to the point where the railroad was alleged to have escaped from the train.

TRAPP TAKES RAP AT STATE POWER

Lieutenant Governor Tells Lehrer Its Better to Get Out of Game.

Special to The World.
OKLAHOMA CITY, June 23.—The charge that "deficiency in the realm of politics" is a bar against receiving consideration at the hands of the state board of education is made by Lieutenant Governor Ed. Trapp in a letter to Prof. O. J. Lehrer of Tonkawa, which he made public today.

The letter is the result of the failure of the board of education to act favorably upon the request of Professor Lehrer to be transferred from the preparatory school at Tonkawa, where he is professor of music, to a similar position at the Central State Normal school at Edmond. The lieutenant governor had requested the governor and board, of which the governor is the head, to make the change, and failure to do so is said to have resulted in an open break between the chief executive and his lieutenant.

No Politician.
In one part of the communication is written the following: "I take it that you must be deficient in one particular at least—the realm of political skill, since I am unable to find any other reason why the board has not seen fit to elect you to the position you applied for."
"I could not present your case upon your qualifications for political skill because of my opinion that you are deficient in that line. I know you to be an exceedingly high class professional man whose services in the interests of educational system in your particular line cannot be excelled. This, however, is of very little importance to the board of education in its selection of facilities."

Tender Resignation.
In conclusion the lieutenant governor urges Prof. Lehrer to tender his resignation immediately and "sever your connection henceforth and forever with the so-called educational system of Oklahoma. Permit me to assure you that this letter is not written in a fit of anger, or without mature deliberation, but is written after 18 months of careful observation and intricate study of the situation as it exists, and I hope you will find it convenient to comply with my request, for follow what may."

CONTINUES TENNIS TOURNAMENT TODAY

Unable to End First Round of "Y" Meet Yesterday on Account of Competition.

Sharp competition in almost every match slowed up the progress of the Y. M. C. A. singles tournament yesterday afternoon and the first round was not completed. About twenty men have entered the tournament, all of whom are fairly evenly matched.
The feature of the day was a play between Rhinehart and Kenney who battled through two fast deuce sets and with one each were forced to postpone the deciding set until tomorrow on account of darkness. Rhinehart took the first set by a 9 to 7 score but Kenney came back in the second frame and got away with it by a similar score. One of these will be eliminated today and the other will stand a good show for the title, as the match yesterday was the best tennis seen on the courts.
